

Extract from letter received from a parishioner

"I recently went up to the graveyard and was surprised to see that the large area of grass there had been cut very short, whereas in the past there was always an area, in the centre left to grow longer to encourage wild flowers for insects to pollinate and provide food and shelter for birds and other creatures.

As a parishioner , with a relative's grave in the graveyard I would be very grateful, if the Parish Council, encouraged natural the habitat there, by letting areas of grass, not necessarily central, grow longer. Thank you and best wishes all our hard working Parish Councillors'

Just wanted to say well done Millbrook Parish Council for leaving areas of grass to grow at the graveyard and elsewhere. Orchids (I think) and lots of other flowers growing here.

Also great to see new trees going in along the new road.
